New Business House. - A general business Agency has been opened in this city, on the corner of Broad and Front streets, by E. B. PICKETT, Esq., late of Carthage. In Mr. Pickett our city makes a valuable acquisition. We recognize in him a gentleman of talents, who has made considerable reputation as an Editor and a speaker, and whilst we are sorry to see him giving his attention exclusively to the drudgery of business, we wish him an abundant pecuniary harvest. We are sure he will labor to deserve it.

Tennessee River Bridge.

A gentleman connected with the rebuilding of the spans of the Bridge recently burned, informs us that it is expected that the job will be completed by the 25th of February next. It will be recollected that the energetic Contractor obligated himself to finish the work by the 1st of March, or forfeit $300 a day until it was completed. He is to be paid $200 a day for time gained on his contract. Considering all the facts about it, the work has been pushed forward with unprecedented zeal .- Drawn on the plan of the Royal Lottery of Cubain Havana Chattanooga Gazette 12th.

The Cumberland leaves for New Orleans tomorrow. Capt. Brooks has good reason to be And Interesting Books! proud of his craft, which is, in all respects, an excellent steamer. Her cabin is very neat, her state-rooms comfortable and well furnished, and the passengers do say her table is all that even an enicure could wish. But these are not the only recommendations of the Cumberland. She has great capacity for carrying freight with little water. She brought up 250 tons drawing less than three feet-can carry 800 tons on 5 1 2 feet-draws only 22 inches light. These qualities are enough combined to make her a popular boat. Passengers wishing to go outh, should be ready to leave on her to morrow. It is useless to say anything

The Angel-Barque. RECEIPED TO MRS. PAUL TUDOR JOHN.

BY L. VIRGINIA PRESCH. "Little Calvin, a blue-eyed, feir haired child of six sum mers, was dying; and he bade his father, mother, and little brother come near the bedside that he might tell them fareself. "Mother" said he, "will you not go with me?" "Where are you going, my child?" asked his mother. With his eyes fixed upword, he answered, "To Heaven, mother" and in a mother was in the arms of Him who has said, "Softer little children to come upto me, and forbid them not, for of such is the singdom of heaven."

From the rosy western heaven, Through the tinted mists of even, Up the part le deeps of twillght Slowly salled a snowy child, Coasting by the golden sky-lands, Sweeping round the starry is ands, Sailed that barque until the zenith Was enveloped in its shroud,

Eummers six had come and parted, Since upon that sea uncharted, Once before came security sailing On a skyward tending track,

Then, a leaf of God's evangel They had left,-a tiny angel On thy bosom, gentle mother, Now they come to call it back. All his earthly mission ended, On his little couch extended,

Lay be, wat:hing with the spirit As his azure eye grew dim ; Though by others all unnoted, Watching where that vessel floated, And the wooling angels walt-d. For he know they came for him Many sweet "good byes" he told ye, Cose his little arms enfold ye, Father, brother, pressing near him, Shotting heaven from his view,

But so thee beginns the nearest.

Thou the fondest, best and dearest,

As he murmured, "Oh! my in ther, Will not you go with me too?" "Where, oh! where, my child?" "To heaven!" Sighed the passing spirit. Even Caught the cadence of a chords As the angel-barque swept on; Ealling up the ether slowly It has reached the haven holy, And lies moored within the shadow Of Jebovah's "great white throne." FOREST HOME, Jan. 14th, 1856.
